SOUTH IN THE SADDLE

Joins Hands With Great West and Re-Elects Woodrow Wilson Without Help from N. Y.

WOODROW WILSON.

After a nerve racking wait of 54 hours from the time the polls closed, news of victory for the Democrats finally came last night at 11 o'clock when the lightning flash told that Woodrow Wilson had been reelected President of the United States—It was a great Battle, and the greatest victory in the political history of the nation—The victory was great in that the solid South joined hands with the west and elected a president without the turn of a hand from New York state and Wall Street—The Final result swung on the pendulum of doubt for many hours until California swung into the Wilson column and then a great Democratic shout went up from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf that made the very hills reverberate—The great shout was taken up by the winged lightning and the news was flashed around the world that Woodrow Wilson had been re-elected president of the United States—The Senate is largely Democratic while the House is very close with a probable majority of four for the Democrats—Republican Chairman Wilcox still refused this afternoon to "give up" and is still talking about the official count—Vance McCormick, the Democratic leader stands pat on 288 Electoral votes for Wilson.

New York, Nov. 10.—President Wilson was re-elected when California swung into the Democratic column. The only states in doubt this morning are Minnesota, New Hampshire and New Mexico, with 19 electoral votes. Unless there is a decided turn in the districts missing, Wilson will carry New Mexico.

Hughes is leading in Minnesota. It will take the official count to determine New Hampshire. West Virginia went definitely for Hughes last night.

Women Against Wilson.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Illinois women cast a total vote of more than $90,000. Cook county shows a percentage of 53.7 for Hughes and 46.3 for Wilson.

Congress Very Close.

New York, Nov. 10.—With the result in five districts still doubtful, the congressional returns indicated 215 Democrats in the House and 211 Republicans, giving the Democrats a plurality of 4. Two of the missing districts are normally Democratic and three Republican. Adherence to the normal would give the Democrats 217 and the Republicans 214. The Democratic plurality would be 3 members. Other parties will be elected to the House.

The Senate stands 54 Democrats, 42 Republicans; Democratic majority 12.

Wilson's Western States.

New York, Nov. 10.—Besides California, the Western states voting for Wilson are Washington, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona and Colorado.

Miss Jeanette Rankin of Montana, candidate for Congress, is leading her male opponent by 400.

New York, Nov. 10.—Chairman Wilcox, in an informal statement, refuses to concede that Wilson is elected, saying the result depends on the vote in a few close states, and that the official count may change the unofficial figures.

Chairman McCormick still insists that Wilson will have 288 electoral votes. Three states are still doubtful this afternoon.
